Proposed Rule Repeal

The Texas Public Accountancy Act was amended during the last legislative session to eliminate the requirement for non-CPA firm owners to take continuing professional education. At its July 16, 2020 meeting, the Board proposed to repeal Board Rule 523.121 that requires CPE for non-CPA firm owners. The proposed repeal was published in the July 31, 2020 edition of the Texas Register. ■

CPA Licensure Changes on the Horizon

The National Association of State Boards of Accountancy (NASBA) and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants (AICPA) plan to change the CPA licensure model to better reflect the knowledge, new technology skills, and competencies that CPAs must possess to meet the current and future needs of the practice. New CPAs are now expected to have more advanced critical thinking, problem solving, and professional judgment skills, as well as a better understanding of systems, controls, and data analysis.

NASBA and AICPA leadership recommend that state boards move to a “core + discipline” CPA licensure model. Their goal is to implement a new Uniform CPA Exam in January 2024. Although the new licensure model is still in its early phases of development, their proposal outlines that CPA candidates would be required to complete the same extensive core education and examination in accounting, auditing, tax and technology. However, CPA candidates would also choose a discipline to concentrate in, such as business reporting and analysis, information systems and controls, or tax compliance and planning.

In light of the new licensure model, NASBA released proposed revisions to the Uniform Accountancy Act \(UAA\) Model Rules, which provide the baseline standard for use by boards of accountancy in state rules and laws. The proposed changes were developed in collaboration with the AICPA and relate to educational requirements for CPA candidates and were written with the intention to promote uniformity among the 55 U.S. jurisdictions. The proposed changes include adding digital acumen and data analytics course content, new requirements for internships and independent study, and the inclusion of courses taken outside a school of business. The Board will consider the proposed changes and determine the courses that may need to be incorporated into the education rules. Visit the CPA Evolution initiative website to learn more about the new licensure model. ■
